Career history

- Feb 2018 to present Associate Research Fellow and (part-time) Tutor in New Testament, Trinity College, Bristol
I supervise doctoral students, oversee the NT research seminar, teach two undergraduate modules in NT (on Acts and Galatians), contribute to Trinity's research culture and outputs, and research, edit and write.
- Jan 2019 to present Adjunct Professor, Samford University, Birmingham, AL, USA
I teach a core course 'Biblical Foundations' for students doing a semester of study abroad at the university's centre in London, UK.
- May 2019 to present Visiting Lecturer, Oak Hill College, London
I teach eight classes on Matthew and Luke for the first-year Biblical Studies module, and Hebrews in Greek for a third-year module.
- Oct 2016 to Dec 2017 Professor in New Testament, St Mary's University, Twickenham (London)
I continued as an internal affiliate of St Mary's Centre for Social-Scientific Study of the Bible, supervised doctoral students, taught Master's and undergraduate students, directed the MA in Biblical Studies, and researched, edited books and wrote.
- Oct 2013 to Oct 2016 Professorial Research Fellow in New Testament, St Mary's University, Twickenham (London)
I served as an internal affiliate of St Mary's Centre for Social-Scientific Study of the Bible, supervised doctoral students, and researched, edited books and wrote.
- Sep 2013 to Jun 2017 Affiliated Lecturer, Faculty of Divinity, University of Cambridge
I taught for the Faculty of Divinity in Cambridge, and supervised undergraduates for the Theological and Religious Studies Tripos.
- Sep 2013 to Aug 2015 Honorary Research Fellow, Tyndale House, Cambridge
I was on the staff of Tyndale House, a major Biblical Studies research library, to pursue research and writing in New Testament.
- Oct 2013 to June 2014 Visiting Lecturer, Eastern Region Ministry Course
I taught two modules for this part-time ordination training course based in Cambridge: NT introduction (first year) and NT exegesis (second year).
- Oct 2011 to Jul 2013 Professor of New Testament, London School of Theology
My role changed to allow more time for research and writing, with no administrative responsibilities, a (slightly) reduced undergraduate teaching load, and an increased postgraduate research supervision load.
- Sep 2008 to Sep 2011 Senior Lecturer in Greek and New Testament Studies and Director of Research, London School of Theology
At the Principal's request, I returned to full-time employment to take up this role.
Responsibilities include: teaching and examining at undergraduate and MA levels; supervision and examination of research students (MTh, MPhil and PhD); acting as personal tutor to a group of students; oversight of postgraduate research department of 110-120 students.
- Sep 2006 to Aug 2008 Senior Lecturer in Greek and New Testament Studies (0.6 time), London School of Theology
I moved to 0.6 time from full-time at my own request, in order to enable me to give more time to research and writing; in order to do so I relinquished my significant administrative responsibilities.
Responsibilities included: teaching and examining at undergraduate and MA levels; supervision and examination of research students (MTh, MPhil and PhD); acting as personal tutor to a group of students.

- Sep 1999 to Aug 2006 Senior Lecturer in Greek and New Testament Studies (previously Lecturer, Sep 1999 to Dec 2002), and Academic Secretary, London School of Theology (formerly London Bible College)
Responsibilities included: teaching and examining at undergraduate and MA levels; supervision and examination of research students (MTh, MPhil and PhD); acting as personal tutor to a group of students; oversight of academic administration (see more fully below, Administration).
- Sep 1995 to Aug 1999 Lecturer in New Testament and (Sep 1997 to Aug 1999) Admissions Tutor, St John's College, Nottingham
Responsibilities included: teaching and examining at undergraduate and MA levels; supervision and examination of research students (MPhil and PhD); acting as personal tutor to a group of students; Admissions Tutor.
- Sep 1994 to Aug 1995 Domestic Chaplain to the Bishop of St Albans, the Rt Revd John B. Taylor
Responsibilities included: research for the bishop's addresses in a wide variety of settings, including the House of Lords; press officer; administrative support to Bishop's staff meetings; prayer and other support for the bishop's ministry.
- Sep 1993 to Aug 1994 Visiting Lecturer in Christian Origins (first-year undergraduate level), History Department, Bedford College of Higher Education (first semester)
Visiting Lecturer in New Testament Gospels (first-year undergraduate level), St John's College, Nottingham (second semester)
Local Tutor, East Anglian Ministry Training Course (whole year)
I also continued to work on my research degree part-time, and completed a book, A Call to Live (see publications list).
- Aug 1992 to Aug 1993 Househusband and part-time postgraduate student
During this period I took the major responsibility for domestic tasks whilst my wife was beginning her first curacy. I also worked part-time on my postgraduate research and my book A Call to Live.
- Jul 1986 to Jul 1992 Vocation and Ministry Adviser, Church Pastoral-Aid Society (CPAS), London/Warwick
Responsibilities: head of a department supporting, helping and encouraging those considering or training for ordination in the Church of England and the Church in Wales; supporting parochial clergy.
- Sep 1983 to Jul 1986 Assistant Curate, St Andrew's Church, Bebington (Diocese of Chester)
Responsibilities: normal parochial duties in a suburban Merseyside parish, plus oversight of work with young people and children (aged up to 18) in the parish.
- Sep 1980 to Aug 1983 Travelling Secretary with Universities and Colleges Christian Fellowship (UCCF) in North-East English Universities
Responsibilities: working alongside a female colleague with seven university Christian Unions, training and supporting student leaders.

Responsibilities: teaching classes from age 11 to 16 in a mixed comprehensive school.

Teaching and learning

---

Undergraduate and Master's levels

Since 1993, I have taught modules from first-year undergraduate to Master's level in different institutions, including the following subject areas:

- First-year undergraduate level: Greek; Gospels and Acts; Christian origins; New Testament introduction.
- Second-year undergraduate level: Intermediate Greek grammar and texts; Greek NT texts (Galatians, Philippians, Acts, Luke, Romans, 1 Corinthians, 1 Thessalonians); the ministry and teaching of Jesus; Luke-Acts (English text); the theology of Paul; synoptic Gospels; Gospels and Acts; biblical exegesis; New Testament ecclesiology.
- Third-year undergraduate level: Exegesis and theology of Greek NT texts (Ephesians, Mark, Romans, Hebrews); exegesis and theology of Acts (English text); the Holy Spirit and spiritual gifts; dissertation induction; Paul; hermeneutics/biblical interpretation.
- Master's level: The Holy Spirit and spiritual gifts then and now; exegesis and theology of Acts (English/Greek text); New Testament theology; exegesis of Greek texts (NT, Septuagint and Apostolic Fathers); Biblical interpretation.

In addition

- I oversee the (online) New Testament research seminar for Trinity College, Bristol (2018-).
- I organised a reading group for Biblical Studies doctoral students and supervisors at St Mary's University, Twickenham each academic year (2015-17).
- I provided undergraduate supervision (one-to-one teaching) for first, second and third-year papers (modules) in the University of Cambridge BA (Hons) in Theological and Religious Studies, for students at Corpus Christi College, Homerton College, Peterhouse, St John's College, Fitzwilliam College, King's College, Selwyn College, and Gonville and Caius College (2013-16).
- I typically supervised 1 to 3 third-year undergraduate dissertations (10,000 words) each year at London School of Theology, and a similar number at St John's College, Nottingham, and St Mary's University, Twickenham.
- I typically supervised 1 or 2 MA dissertations (20,000 words) each year at London School of Theology (see list below).
- I oversaw and contributed to the research induction for new research students at London School of Theology, and taught research induction for new research students at St John's College, Nottingham.
- I team-taught a one-week course on the Myers-Briggs Personality Type Indicator for the whole college (90-100 students) at St John's College, Nottingham in November 1996.
- I taught 1 to 3 classes each year on a variety of topics for the whole college (90-100 students) Spirituality course at St John's College, Nottingham 1995-99.

Distance learning

1997-98 Tutoring 'mixed mode' students of St John's College, Nottingham who studied introductory Greek by distance learning.

1995-2000 Distance-learning tutor, Open Theological College for modules on Luke-Acts (second-year undergraduate level) and dissertation supervision (third-year undergraduate level) (12-15 students in total).

1993–94 Local tutor for the East Anglian Ministry Training Course (first-year undergraduate level) for one student.

Revision and rewriting of the St John's College, Nottingham distance learning module (first-year undergraduate level) God and the World (see publications).

1992, 1993, 1994, 1997 and 1998 Teaching each year on one-week summer schools for St John's College, Nottingham's distance learning programme (first-year undergraduate level; about 50 students each week).

1981–99 Distance-learning tutor for St John's College, Nottingham for modules at first-year undergraduate level on OT Introduction, NT Introduction, The Greek New Testament, God and the World, and Ministry in the Local Church (40–50 students in total).

Other

1999–2002 Visiting Lecturer in New Testament for the St Albans and Oxford Ministry Course (a part-time course training people for ordained and other ministries in the Anglican, Methodist and United Reformed Churches).

1981–83 I lectured and tutored Readers (lay ministers/preachers) in training in the Diocese of Wakefield (when I was myself a Reader), and also on a lay training scheme in the same diocese.

Drawing on my New Testament expertise, I have taught for continuing ministerial education events for the (Anglican) Dioceses of Oxford, Southwell, St Albans, Exeter, and Chester, and I was a main speaker at a national Vocations Advisers' Conference organised by the (then) Advisory Council for the Church's Ministry.

I co-led a major workshop (on the atonement) at NEAC3, the National Evangelical Anglican Celebration in 1988. I was a speaker at Spring Harvest in 1990, 1994, 1995 and 1996. I gave Bible studies for the Pathfinder leaders' national conference in 1995.

Course development

National

Co-chair of UK network of Greek teachers in university Theology departments and theological colleges, originally as part of the Classics subject centre of the Learning and Teaching Network, and later as part of the Philosophy and Religious Studies subject centre of the Higher Education Academy—in both cases we received funding each year in support of our annual day conference. This involved: (i) organising day conferences annually 2001–08; (ii) presenting papers on aspects of Greek teaching at those conferences; (iii) planning, gaining LTSN/HEA funding for, and carrying out a project designed to produce materials to support beginning Greek students in reading John's Gospel in Greek. I continue to be consulted regularly by colleagues and publishers in the UK and elsewhere on aspects of Greek teaching.

St Mary's University, Twickenham

I took the lead in developing a new MA in Biblical Studies, and heading up the application for validation during 2016–17, and served as the first programme coordinator for the MA. The first intake of students was in autumn 2017.

London School of Theology

I oversaw and edited the documentation for validation of three undergraduate programmes by Middlesex University when London School of Theology changed its validating university, autumn 2004 to spring 2005. This entailed assembling around 1000 pages of documentation over a period of about 3 months. The validating team from Middlesex University commented,

‘The Panel was impressed with the standard of the documentation supplied’ and, ‘The Panel also felt that Middlesex University’s guidelines had been adhered to in a very short space of time and that the [programme] handbooks showed creative work within the curriculum.’

Internal scrutineer for proposed extra-mural CertHE programme to be run jointly by London School of Theology and the London Institute for Contemporary Christianity, entitled ‘Christian Life and Work’, 2000 (about 150 pages of documentation).

I initiated and participated in significant revision or creation of a number of modules which I taught at London School of Theology, including: the whole range of Greek modules from first- to third-year undergraduate levels (during 2001–02); a new second-year undergraduate level module on biblical exegesis (during 2007–08); the MA module, The Holy Spirit and Spiritual Gifts (during 2002–03); and a new MA module, Exegesis of Greek Texts (during 2007–08).

St John’s College, Nottingham

I initiated the creation of an MA module on New Testament Theology (first delivered 1997–98), and designed and delivered it in collaboration with a colleague. I also designed and delivered an MA module on Acts (first delivered 1995–96).

External appointments

External examiner, Faculty of Divinity, University of Cambridge BTh (Hons) for Ministry, 2019–22.

External examiner, King’s College London Associateship of King’s College (AKC), 2017–19.

External assessor, York St John University’s validation of BA and MA programmes in Applied Theology at the Irish Bible Institute, Dublin, April 2014.

External examiner, Moorlands College BA (Hons) in Applied Theology (validated by University of Gloucestershire), 2013–17.

External examiner, Lancashire and Cumbria Theological Partnership and then Cumbria Christian Learning BA (Hons) and MA in Applied Theology (validated by University of Cumbria), 2013–17.

External examiner, King’s College London MA in Theology and Ministry, 2008–12.

External assessor, Middlesex University’s validation of MTh and MA/PGDip programmes at Oak Hill College, London, December 2002.

Principal’s Visiting Scholar, University of Aberdeen, invited and funded by the University to act as ‘consultant’ to newer teaching staff in New Testament for one week, April 2001; this included lecturing on Acts and Mark, and presenting a paper to the New Testament research seminar.

Research

Current research

I am writing a major critical commentary on Acts for the Word Biblical Commentary in two substantial volumes. Volume 1 will cover Acts 1–14, and volume 2, Acts 15–28.

I am contracted to write the volume on Acts for the Zondervan Critical Introduction to the New Testament series.

I plan to collect my published essays on Acts (from journals, edited collections, Festschriften, etc., plus a some unpublished pieces) together for a book, and have a publisher who is interested.

Other research interests include: Greek language and linguistics, including Greek pedagogy; reading the New Testament in its ancient social and cultural settings; theological reading of the New Testament; biblical theology; synoptic Gospels studies, particularly Luke and Mark; the appropriation of the Old Testament in the New; the Pauline letters, particularly (but not exclusively) Philippians and 1 Thessalonians; and textual criticism, particularly in relation to Acts. I am also very interested in interdisciplinary work which connects New Testament with other theological and non-theological disciplines. I have supervised or am supervising research students in many of these areas.

Conference organisation

As Secretary of the British New Testament Society, I work with local organisers each year to facilitate their work in organising the Society's annual conference.

I was the prime organiser for a conference of the Centre for Social-Scientific Study of the Bible (St Mary's University, Twickenham), 'Engaging with Poverty in the Early Church and Today' (December 2015). The conference was a collaboration between the Centre and three mission agencies, Tearfund, Caritas Diocese of Westminster, and the Bible Society, with 17 speakers. We attracted £10,000 in grants (from Bible Society and Caritas) which enabled us to bring speakers from Colombia and to give funded places, including travel and accommodation, to three PhD students from the developing world. A book is in process of editing from the conference papers, and has been accepted for publication by Bloomsbury.

I was the prime organiser for a conference of the Centre for the Social-Scientific Study of the Bible (St Mary's University, Twickenham), 'Cities of God? An Interdisciplinary and International Assessment of early Christian Engagement with the Ancient Urban Environment(s)' (May 2015). This conference drew together human geographers, Classicists and New Testament scholars (17 speakers in total) to discuss how early Christianity engaged with, and grew within, urban settings in the ancient world. The book The Urban World and the First Christians (see below) is the published version of the papers.

Postgraduate supervision

Summary

I have successfully supervised to completion 15 PhD students, and 4 MTh by research students. I currently supervise for Trinity College, Bristol, whose PhD programme is validated by the University of Aberdeen.

I supervised PhD students at St Mary’s University College, Twickenham, and have supervised one PhD student for Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridge. I supervised at PhD, MPhil, MTh (by research) and MA (‘taught’, including a 20,000 word dissertation) levels at London School of Theology (and did similarly at St John’s College Nottingham). Typically, I supervise 5–8 research students at one time, and at London School of Theology most years I supervised 1 or 2 students for MA dissertations.

Administration

Trinity College, Bristol

Interview panel for Director of Contextual Learning and Part-time Training, May-June 2020.

University of Cambridge

New Testament Subject Committee, Faculty of Divinity 2014–18.

Paper co-ordinator, B1b Intermediate New Testament Greek 2015–17.

London School of Theology

Chair, Research Conference 2012-13

- overseeing biannual conferences for research students and teaching faculty, including inviting outside speakers (we normally aim to have one guest speaker), soliciting and encouraging student and faculty papers, practical arrangements, arranging people to chair sessions.

Director of Research, 2008-11

- in general, overseeing the postgraduate research department of 110-120 research students registered for MTh, MPhil and PhD, including:
- supervising the School's Postgraduate Registrar;
- chairing the School's Research Committee;
- liaising with the School's two validating universities for research degrees, Brunel and Middlesex, including negotiating details of the School's research degree Memorandum of Cooperation with Middlesex University;
- overseeing induction and training of new research supervisors, and ongoing training of current research supervisors, including writing and editing of a research supervisors' handbook, and organising seminars biannually for research supervisors;
- overseeing provision for induction and training of new research students, including the regular updating of a research students' handbook;
- chairing a weekly research reading seminar during semester 1 each year for postgraduates and faculty, studying a new and significant book;
- supporting faculty colleagues in their own research and academic development.

Member, School Executive, 2008-09

- the Executive was a group of six which assisted and advised the Principal in overseeing the life of the School, meeting weekly.

Academic Secretary, 1999-2006

- supervising and managing the School's Registrar;
- acting as Secretary to all Boards of Examiners (MA, BA in Theology, Both in Christian Life and Ministry, BA in Theology, Music and Worship, BA in Theology and Counselling). This also involved:
- recruiting, inducting and supporting external examiners for each of the degree programmes, in consultation with the relevant programme leader (the School then had 8 external examiners in total for the undergraduate and MA programmes, which meant replacing 2 or 3 per year);
- overseeing exam timetables and procedures in close liaison with the School Registrar;
- advising chairs and members of Boards of Examiners (informally and formally) on any mitigating circumstances, and unusual or borderline cases;

Personal interests

I was very involved in volleyball for over forty years (1973-2015). I refereed at the top domestic level (1983-2011) and as an international referee (1992-2010, including refereeing at two Paralympic Games, four World Championships, and three European Championships). I served as Vice-President of ParaVolley Europe, the European governing body of volleyball for athletes with disabilities, and as chair of the European Referee Commission. I was a recognised instructor and observer for international referees. As chair of the European Referee Commission, I was a member of the Referee Commission of World ParaVolley. I also served as a member of Volleyball England's Referee Commission. I was an observer of referees in England, watching their matches and giving them feedback and coaching. I have received several awards at national and international level for my contribution to refereeing, including being inducted into Volleyball England's Hall of Fame, and receiving the ParaVolley Europe gold medal (I was only the third recipient of this award, which is given for significant service to the sport). I was honoured to be nominated by Volleyball England as an Olympic torchbearer, and ran my leg at Newmarket on 7 July 2012.
